Dear Bruno,

I am pleased to learn that the new Canopy Glider has been tested and is ready to start with exploration of the rain forest canopy. It certainly will make the documentation of the plant diversity of the canopy a much easier process.

The Institute of Systematic Botany at The New York Botanical Garden is eager to participate in expeditions to sites in the New World tropics. We would be able to help with the inventory by collecting specimens and sending duplicates of the collections to specialists throughout the world.

Please keep me informed of expedition opportunities.

With best wishes,

Scott Mori
